Nerdy Notes from the Nurse

September is National Childhood Obesity Awareness Month. About 1 in 5 (19%) in the United States has obesity. Children with obesity are at higher risk for having other chronic health conditions and diseases, such as asthma, sleep apnea, bone and joint problems, and type 2 diabetes. They also have risk factors for heart disease like high blood pressure and high cholesterol than their normal weight peers. Many factors impact childhood obesity, including eating and physical activity behaviors. Obesity may be influenced by too much time being inactive, lack of sleep, lack of access to affordable healthier foods, and easy access to inexpensive, high calorie foods and sugary beverages. Each week look for tips and tricks that I will be offering about diet and exercise to help you and your child. Let me know if I can offer further resources at any time. Brittney Kotas, RN
